Carson City School District Honors Employee and Educator of the Year

CARSON CITY, Nev. (April 26, 2017) — Tedra “Teddy” Cook, 7th grade teacher at Carson Middle School, was honored last night as the Carson City School District’s Educator of the Year. Additionally, Bridget Gordon, 21st Century Solutions Program coordinator at Carson High School, was recognized as the Classified Employee of the Year for the district.

Cook and Gordon were selected from 25 candidates including 11 teachers and 14 classified employees who were selected from peers and administrators from various sites and schools within the district. Each candidate endured a series of strenuous interview questions from a panel of comprehensive judges. Upon conclusion of those interviews, the panel then made the difficult decision of selecting “one” classified employee of the year and “one” educator of the year.

Other Classified Employees and Educators of the Year candidates recognized and honored last night include Kelly Anderson, Donald Bland, Christina Bourne, Tanisha Chacon, Teresa Cox, Jose “Rudy” DeLeon, Denise DeMarzo, Jessica Greener, Tara Hornemann, Janet Hughes, Alisa Kuniya, Rhiannon Moffat, Phillip Molleson, Toni Nielsen, Carol “Susie” Owens, Robert Perry, Luis Rizo, Rosanna Robertson, Wayne Schlachta, Shawn Schneider, Heather Stagliano, Miriam Torres and Mary Wertjes.

Mrs. Cook has been teaching at Carson Middle School since 2004. She spent more than 20 years in the retail industry before fulfilling a long-time dream of becoming a teacher. She earned a Bachelor’s from the University of Nevada Reno and later earned a Master’s in Teaching English as a Second or Other Language (TESOL) from Grand Canyon University. She is also Google 1 Certified, working on her Level 2 certification with ambitions to become a Google Trainer. She has hosted professional development trainings for online grading programs as well as a hyperdocs training, which is a collaborative digital lesson that allows for student exploration, choice and creativity. Mrs. Cook is also an Adjunct Professor at Sierra Nevada College.

In addition to last night’s award, as the District Educator of the Year, Mrs. Cook will have the opportunity to compete for Nevada Teacher of the Year.
